

March 2010 walk

The Spring sun shone down on our March Sunday walk.

It was wonderful to greet the warm spring sunshine today, after what seems like a very long winter. Yet again we were lucky with the weather. Although it was a little dull when we started out, the sun came out as we walked across the fields.

Eight of us gathered at the Boot & Shoe pub in Flintham... some of the usual bunch, plus Martin & Sue joined us for the first time.

Led by John, we walked through Flintham and along a path that led through someone's private garden... before emerging at Syerston, where Shirley and Stan had lived for several years. Shirley shared some of her memories of the village with us... including tales of some lively evenings in the village hall. Tut tut, Shirley!!

Heading out of Syerston, we cut through several fields in a circular walk, capturing photos of lambs and sharing some good conversation along the way. A couple of hours later we arrived back in Flintham for some well earned lunch and refreshment. The Sunday lunch at the Boot & Shoe was excellent, though unfeasibly large portions. Good job we'd worked up an appetite!
